EMERY WINS A RACE AT LAST

Old War Horse Takes First in Mile Handicap.

HEAGREN BEATS REDMAN

HOPPER TURNS PROFESSIONAL AND MAKES GOOD.

EVERYTHING comes to him who waits. After waiting long and patiently, Emery, the war horse of the track, succeeded in pulling down first money at the track last night. The old war horse worked hard and his efforts filled his pockets with the coin of the realm.

It happened in the final of the professional handicap, and Emery, the war horse, started from the 15-yard mark with "Phoebus." Jack Burris five yards ahead of him and the speedy buck napping from the scratch to thirty yards, Emery and Burris were neck and neck, their heads as well as their feet, with the result that they met a moving clip, and the pace at every lap. The back bunch refused to work together, and Emery, who was not a money clip, but a work horse, at the half-mile Emery and Burris led by three-quarters of a lap, and Emery, who was not a money clip, but a work horse, at the half-mile Emery and Burris led by three-quarters of a lap, and Emery, who was not a money clip, but a work horse, at the half-mile Emery and Burris led by three-quarters of a lap.

The match race between Furman and Hausman, best two out of three half-mile heats, was taken by the Californian. It was simply a case of a little sprint at the end of the race and with Furman getting the good start, he won the match. Barney Oldfield has rigged up a single six-cylinder motor, and gave an exhibition of what the thing could do last evening. He made a mile in 1:30, and will have to come several times to the lap better than that if he ever expects to keep in the same state with Maxwell.

C. Hopper made his first appearance in the professional ranks last evening, and convinced those present that he has speed enough to make the money classes. He won his heat in a great sprint after losing the first heat. The summary: Mile professional handicap, final—(Emery) 1:30, (Burris) 1:30, (Hausman) 1:30, (Furman) 1:30, (Maxwell) 1:30, (Hopper) 1:30.

FORMER CHAMPION DEFEATED.

Veteran British Tennis Player Beaten by Bostonian.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 22.—The tennis of the fourth day of the national championship at the Casino was made noteworthy by the defeat of Dr. Joshua Pitt, a former champion of all England. The defeat of the British player was a surprise to many, as he was considered one of the best players in the world.

Wright attracted the most attention. Whitman winning three sets to one. In this latter event, the absence of dancing smokes and the fast, close work at the net made the most dexterous and half the crowd went over to see the contest between H. L. Taylor and Whitman.

They found the excitement which they craved, for by playing his steady base line game Stevens not only took a win from the Englishman, but came within a single stroke of another four, and the score 40-30, Stevens missed scoring on a fine ball by a few inches, the ball going just that distance outside. Doherty then evened matters without difficulty, and although Stevens won another game, the Englishman ran out the set 6-1. The next went to him, 6 to 1, and the match was finished.

Athletic Club in Trouble. New York, Aug. 22.—Members of the well known Knickerbocker Athletic club have decided to take active steps to reorganize the club. The club has been in a state of financial trouble for some time, and the members have decided to take action to save the club.

Joe Holland has received $500 from the railroad company for arresting and securing the conviction of two Indians who had been causing trouble through the windows of a Southern Pacific passenger coach, near Carlin, Nev., two or three days ago. The Indians stood on top of a cut and hurled rocks at passing passenger trains. Holland was conductor, went back from Carlin and made the arrest. The redskins admitted their guilt.

"Corianton" Drew Well. The opera house was crowded last night upon the occasion of the presentation of "Corianton." There was a great deal of applause for the play, which was a very successful one. The members of the company, as well as parties who saw the play in Salt Lake, say that last night was the most successful presentation yet given. The entire house is almost sold out for this evening.

Sherriff Layton has gone to Lewiston, Ida., to visit his mother. P. Frazzini yesterday failed to appear for trial on the charge of beating John Cox and his $100 bond was forfeited.

P. Morgan, charged with house-breaking, was yesterday held to answer the charge in the district court in bonds of $150.

A marriage license was yesterday issued to Herschel Pendleton, aged 24, and Miss Elsie McDermott, aged 19, both of Ogden.

CONCERNING THE WEDDING. Why Certain Indians Kept Their Oldest Wives.

A few months ago the "foremost American citizens," the plumed and primitive gentlemen beyond the Mississippi river, were notified that hereafter they would be limited to one wife apiece, and there was consternation and regret in all the lodges of the great plains and painted tepees of the mountains.

The order not only restricted future matrimonial ventures; it compelled the warriors to select one from the many, and then ungalantly drive the others off the reservation. The result has been a series of tragedies in the forests. But, to the surprise of everyone, the Indians, without one exception, chose their old wives, the bent and ugly crones who had served them all the years, and married them.

"The matter seemed worthy the frame of an epic," questioned a volunteer chief of the reservation in Anadarko, Okla., concerning it.

"Did you keep your oldest wife and send the others away from you?" I questioned.

"Ugh!" he responded soulfully.

"Did you like the pretty young women best?"

"Ugh!"

His expression convinced me of the brotherhood of man.

"Well, I said, 'I am glad you kept the old one. It was a beautiful sentiment, I am sure. You remembered, didn't you, how pretty and sweet she was when you first loved her—long ago?'"

He made no reply and I feared he did not quite understand me. "Didn't I insist that you should keep the old one, because it was a beautiful sentiment, I am sure. You remembered, didn't you, how pretty and sweet she was when you first loved her—long ago?'"

"No," he grunted. "Me like 'bac' old squaw keep pipe full."

Not long ago a good woman wrote me that her husband was the best of men. That he was true and upright and generous and tolerant; but she wanted me to tell her something that would make him about what she described as the "soul-destroying" effect of using tobacco. She admitted that he smoked outdoors when the weather was fine, and in the kitchen when storms drove him to that shelter. But, even so, she was afraid the smoke would creep through the cracks and doors and lurk in her curtains and wash sketches of Thackeray, and hence, should the husband be a novelist, looked at every page of his life.

Mr. Lambert is sure that Thackeray never wrote "weepers," and therefore, would have no long since to stand the expense of the removal of the objectionable whisks from the otherwise accurate and spirited Marochetti's matter; the bust was taken for a brief space out of Westminster, and the whisks were trimmed down to the proper length. Mr. Lambert was permitted to the removal of the objectionable whisks from the bust, and he now stands on one of the landings of the stairway of his house in German-town.

That handsome young cavalier who spread his arms and legs, and even if it held the fragrance of your wedding garland!"

The governments that send out have learned by experience that tobacco is so deadly a weed that it men can bear hunger, cold and the sting of bullets. Even the venerable Indian has proved that the tobacco walk upon had ever the good and comfort of women at heart; and he never did a kinder thing for them than when he introduced an article of temperance into the nerve-soothing and tempering of Virginia. It has made soft the feet of women even as his cloak covered the path for Elizabeth.
